AMICABLE SPACE VISITORS—MC²

STUDY ENVIRONMENT OF

AND HORATIO—ALIGHT,
H. H. S. STUDENTS

come with us, we'll show

As a result of the construction at the lower gate, these boys are forced to congregate on the auditorium steps before class begins.

you around

Amidst students scurrying toward their homerooms before the 8:30 o'clock tardy bell, MC² and his companion begin their tour of a typical earth school.

Down the main hall, past the prized trophy cases, smiling faces greet all newcomers and guests.

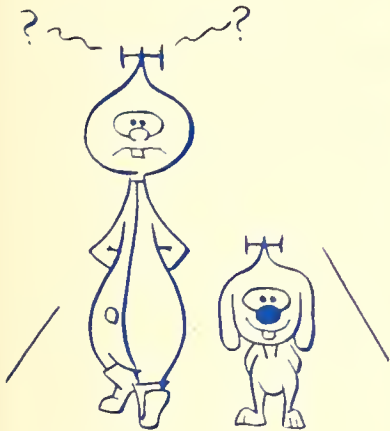

Intricate mosaics, as well as imaginative travel posters, show students' expression and are proudly displayed in the main hall by Mr. Rankin, Chi Chi Queen, and Kathy Cauble.

With the arrival of the buses, the news of forthcoming events spreads and interest mounts. Student body relationship is strengthened by avid participation in various activities.

Filled with anything from coats and books to leaves and a bottle of algae for biology, the lockers that line each hallway reflect the personality of their owners.

THEIR TREK COVERS ALL ASPECTS OF STUDENT INTEREST

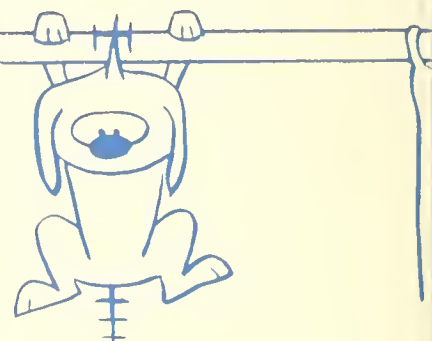

Before school, at lunch, or during study hall, students find time to explore the shelves of the library. A prospective book for an approaching report catches Gene Moser's eye.

THE SCHOOL 16

Classes from 8:30 until 3:15—the foundation of students' future—are typified by Tommy Dellinger, Jackie Wysong, and Bo Walker examining a science project.

. AS SPACE GUESTS

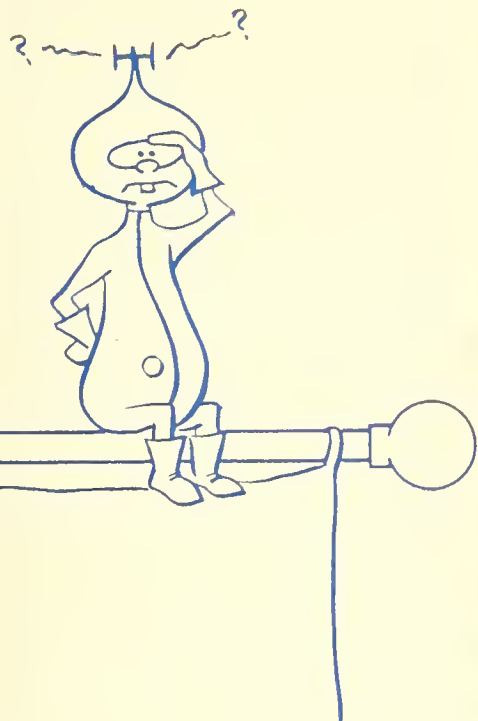

STUDENTS 36

Food to keep the energetic teenagers on the go is heartily relished by daily patrons of the school lunch room.

ACTIVITIES 88

Christmas caroling by French Clubbers denotes commendable participation in school organizations and activities.

CANDIDLY OBSERVE H. H. S.

ATHLETICS 118

Eluding Hudson players, Ronnie Bumgarner takes advantage of an opening in the opposing team's defense.

FEATURES 142

Highlights of the year acquire a special place in students' memories, as does the annual TWIRP dance and its zany costumes.

ADVERTISEMENTS 164

From local subscribers comes the support necessary to publish the Log as staff heads Jimmy Pritchard, Barbara Link, and Anna Newton "sales talk" a merchant.

Mrs. Kathryn Havnaer CULTIVATES MINDS OF STUDENTS

Molding the minds of the sophomores through the instruction of English; instilling a love for Latin among Hickory High School students and aspiring ninth graders; providing a foundation for the students' individual vocations through her leadership in the testing program; operating the school store for the needs of industrious students; guiding and stimulating the student body toward goals in the annual magazine campaign; relinquishing time for daily lunch line duty; and serving capably as president of the English Council, an outstanding member of the teaching profession is hereby recognized for her varied contributions.

To Mrs. Kathryn Havnaer, we, the students of Hickory High School, dedicate the 1961 HICKORY LOG.

Dannie Huffman purchases a notebook at the school store from Mrs. Havnaer, who is startled at the presence of Log's candid camera.

Pointing out errors and suggesting revisions, Mrs. Havnaer patiently conducts Latin class during first period for ninth graders.

FOR A FUTURE OF PROGRESSIVE THINKING AND LIVING

Known to everyone eating in the lunch room, Mrs. Havnaer greets hungry students as she accepts their money for lunch. Cheerfully and without complaint, she gives up part of her lunch hour for this daily service, showing her willingness to help in all areas.

8:30 UNTIL 3:15—THOUGHT PROVOKING,

TRYING, ENLIGHTENING—FOR STUDENTS AND FACULTY

Possessing a B.S. degree from Wake Forest, his Master of Education from Duke, and his Doctor of Education from U.N.C., Dr. W. M. Jenkins records still another appointment on his already busy schedule.

Insuring the future of the Hickory City School System, Superintendent W. M. Jenkins and the School Board are constantly undertaking plans in accordance with the needs of the students. With concentrated attention toward providing the city schools with necessary equipment, the School Board (which is composed of members elected every four years) seeks further improvement through the selection of qualified teachers and principals. Thus, the harmonious operation of this expanding school system enables students to complete their academic requirements and move into the horizons of a changing world.

Administration ACHIEVES IMPROVEMENT THROUGH PLANNING

School Board members meet the first Tuesday night of each month to plan, organize, and carry out projects which emphasize the future of the Hickory City School System.

"How should I know what goes on in there?"

ENDORSED BY STUDENT BODY—AS WELL AS MC² AND HORATIO

Cold days cause these boys to appreciate their between-class smoke—cigarettes, that is.

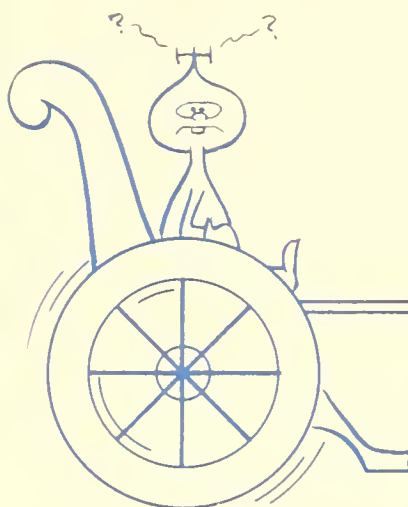

STUDENTS RETAIN NOTEWORTHY PRIVILEGES

Newly licensed students ignore increasing parking problems and relish the privilege of driving their cars to school.

"This is my parents' idea of a foreign sports car!"

DEMOCRATIC CHOICES

Granted the preference of class, teacher, and period, confused sophs, as well as upperclassmen, are assured of satisfaction. Talking to the rising, anxious sophomores, Bobby Jamison gives a preview of what's in store for them at H. H. S.

► Their car being filled to capacity, these hungry passengers take advantage of the opportunity of going out to lunch by stopping at the nearby Village Diner for a hurried meal.

VOCATIONAL CLASSES: PRELIMINARY INSTRUCTION FOR

Attractive displays in the D.O. room and adjoining display window interest both Emily Phillips and passers-by.

"Nimble" fingers of first year students get a quick workout before attempting to type a letter.

Discovering that their high school studies have covered a wide range of topics, these seniors apply their knowledge toward completion of the senior tests, which will later be used as aptitude references.

Advanced biology class students Ralph Watkins, Becky Cromer, and Rene Clark experiment with the effect of tranquilizers on the growth of mice. The injections prove painful to young scientists as well as mice.

CHOSEN CAREERS

A month's work awaits Mrs. Church's approval as she grades a homemaking student's project.

BASIC CLASSES

One of the most popular classes on the schedule, art allows one and all an opportunity to express hidden talent. Gary Herman concentrates on sketching.

Attired in new (heavy, but warm) overcoats, the band exemplifies unity of action and attitude that results from concentrated effort by individual members and the director.

CONTRIBUTE TO CHARACTER OF INDIVIDUAL STUDENTS

▲ Physical hygiene is developed by various methods in physical education class, as exemplified by these energetic athletes.

Sound reasoning, as a result of knowledge in the field of mathematics, is essential for development in the modern age. Sam Harmon relates information concerning his solid geometry project.

As a basis for society, English offers a challenge to all students. George Prevette shares a report with his class while Miss Stacy, student teacher, looks on.

H. H. S. CREDITS SMOOTH OPERATION TO ADVANCED EQUIPMENT,

Modern teaching aids, like the tape recorder being used by Mary Elizabeth Violette, improve the speech of foreign language students, and are another step toward a foreign language laboratory.

In shop, Don McNeely learns the use and treatment of machinery. Finished articles leaving this class are worthy of high praise, even though their construction sometimes goes slowly.

◀ Mrs. Cilley catches up on current events while Miss Quinn, student teacher from Lenoir Rhyne College, reviews United States history with the class.

▶ Construction of a new building—which includes a much needed, spacious library and additional classrooms to relieve crowded commercial classes—is the main point of interest on the west side of the school campus.

QUALIFIED FACULTY

Familiar to all students are the janitors and lunchroom staff. Mrs. Everette Miller plans the menus and heads the lunchroom staff.

"Even a guest can't break into this lunch line."

Complimentary apples from the Woman's Club provide Mrs. Cilley, Mr. Lyerly, Mrs. Church, Mr. Rankin and Mrs. Sikes with an opportunity to relax and enjoy their corsages before visitors arrive for Open House.

BREAK IN SCHEDULE RELIEVES

Serving numerous purposes, the auditorium is the site of study hall silence as well as campaign speech applause. Although two separate assembly programs must be scheduled to accommodate the growing number of students, the varied programs—from guest speakers to film features—guarantee twenty minutes of entertainment and are appreciatively received.

Teenagers all over the earth are known for their appetites and this line of hungry students is no exception.

The line seems long, but the time flies with conversation on the latest topics of interest—whether it's movies, clothes, or food.

MOUNTING PRESSURES AND MONOTONY OF DAILY ROUTINE

Open house, sponsored by the Administration to better acquaint seniors and school workers, draws a large crowd—as does the punch bowl.

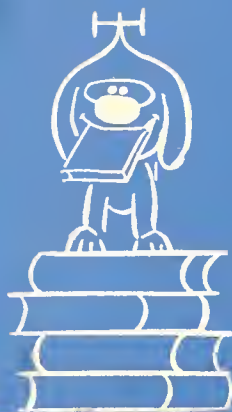

On College Day, seniors discuss their futures with the representatives from colleges in North and South Carolina.

Discussing anything and everything before school, after school, and during class changes is the privilege of every student at Hickory High.

Performing one of their numerous tasks, Student Council members, Ida Wilfong and Kathy Cauble, serve famished football players after a game.

Chipper Kiser and Mrs. Allison are informed of the many duties of a speech therapist by Miss Vivian Burton.

INDIVIDUAL CONDUCT

ranges the group which is waiting for its picture to be snapped before returning to the routine grind of classes.

Gene Moser, George Hovey, and George Henson strive for precision in mechanical drawing class.

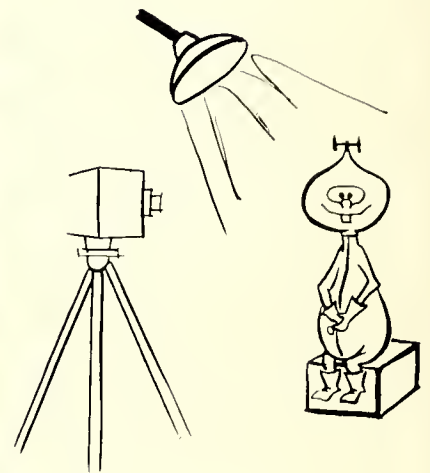

By gracious invitation, seniors, such as: Ann Bell, Brenda Areuri, and Vickie Dellinger, have a chance to view the hosiery mills' displays and examine the finished products.

Examining music projects from elementary schools, Eddy Miller, Bickett Whitener, and Scott Bain view Administration Building exhibits.

CLASS

Senior Class Officers

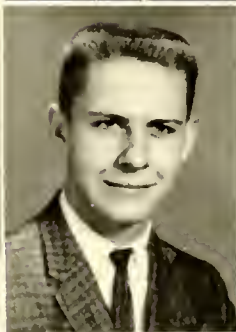

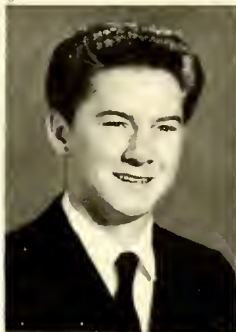

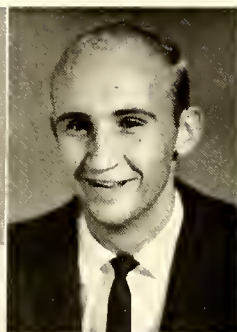

Many memories crowd the minds of Hickory High's 1961 graduates. They remember, as sophomores, the chaos of registration day, the anticipation of the first day of high school, their first and last Homecoming parade, and the return of semester exams. During their junior year came acceptance into various clubs, football championship, decorating for the Junior-Senior prom, the fear of the bomb scare, and dismissal of school because of snow. Finally their senior year brought College Day, top positions on activities, the last football game, "Dixie," glorious Senior Week, graduation, and the promise to be "Hickory High School girls and boys forever."

Jerry Price, Secretary-Treasurer,
Dennis Spencer, President, and Chipper Kiser, Vice-President, preside as senior officers.

Junior Class Officers

Accustomed to the relatively exhausting schedule of an active scholar, the Junior Class finds time to engage in extracurricular activities, assist seniors, and aid sophomores in becoming orientated, thus acting as the "backbone" of the student body. A glimpse of this support comes early in the year as juniors collect class dues to finance the anticipated and elaborate Junior-Senior Prom in the spring. Completing the year with hard work and determination, the Class of '62 looks forward to next year when they too will be the honored upperclassmen.

Nancy Cuneo, Secretary-Treasurer, Buzzy Frye, President, and Brenda Buchanan, Vice-President, plan for the Jr.-Sr. Prom.

Tests are over; Christmas is here; Tommy Dellinger, Jack Wysong, Bill Williamson, and Mrs. Lackey feel its time for a celebration. Rejoicing over cookies and "Cokes," they join in a toast to the end of exams and the beginning of a new semester.

BY FIRST CLASS NOT PARTICIPATING IN A PARADE

Entering the unfamiliar atmosphere of school classes and activities, the fledglings attempt to adjust to the new environment. September slips by while they struggle beneath a "mountain" of homework, projects, and book reports. A few of the more ambitious members of the class venture into the school's extracurricular program. January quickly arrives with the first semester exams and more confusion. With the coming of spring, elections for the next year forecast a marked conversion in the sophomores. They emerge, self-assured and ready to undertake another year of study.

Wyant Bolick, Vice-President; Jane Abernathy, Secretary-Treasurer; and Paul Boch, President, pause in front of the new building.

BEWILDERED TO FIND HOMEWORK A NEVER-ENDING PROCESS

STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBER ELECTED STATE COUNCIL SECRETARY

Ida Lee Wilfong and Robin Cilley compile news for the Root, the monthly newsletter published by the Student Council.

Training youths to be the leaders of tomorrow, the Student Council serves as a connecting link between the student body and administration, promotes citizenship and scholarship, fosters wholesome school spirit, and co-ordinates student activities. Twelve outstanding students—elected on the basis of character, leadership, scholastic record, and capability—comprise Hickory High's student government.

The many duties of the organization include chartering clubs and supervising school elections and Homecoming activities. By giving the exchange student actual experience in democratic government, the council aids the American Field Service Program. Selling football programs and feeding the players after each game add to the busy schedule of the Student Council members.

Working hand in hand with the Student Council, members of the Homeroom Representatives have the responsibility of building closer relationships between the students and their student government. To illustrate this, the President and the Vice-President of the organization are members of the Upper House of the Student Council, joining these organizations into a better governing power. As the Lower House of the school's government, the Homeroom Representatives are responsible for Homecoming activities, selections of Boy and Girl of the Month, an open house to acquaint Seniors with the supervisors of the school system, support of all functions of the school, and any jobs to help either students or faculty. One ever-present service is lunch line duty which aids the teachers in maintaining orderliness in the lunchroom. When small needs or large ones arise, the Homeroom Representatives are always available to help.

Specifying qualifications for an approaching Girl and Boy of the Month election, Chipper Kiser presides over a meeting during assembly period.

NEW INTER-CLUB ADVISORY COMMITTEE CORRELATES ACTIVITIES

Jimmy Gaither and Mr. Cottrell present the aims of the newly formed Inter-Club Advisory, as Sandy Shuford, French Club president, listens.

Acting as the intermediary between the faculty and the students, the Inter-Club Advisory Committee has been formed this year to promote a more wholesome school spirit and to encourage citizenship in Hickory High School, as well as eliminate inactive organizations. One of the main aims determined by the club is to create a better relationship between the student body and the teachers in all school activities. In addition, the club makes any necessary changes in the business supervision of the clubs.

Bridging the gap between students, parents, and teachers, the P.T.A. Representatives strive to better relations throughout the school. Feelings and ideas of the student body are represented at quarterly meetings and transacted business is reported to homerooms.

When school commences, the P.T.A. membership drive also commences with representatives boosting memberships in homerooms. As the year rolls by, interest and attendance at meetings are stimulated by phoning parents as a reminder of organization activities. Assisting in raising money for the budget and all other projects of the organization, representatives aid in maintaining a beneficial P.T.A.

Beth Shuler takes up P. T. A. membership dues from fellow classmates, Ann Deal, Gary Eckard, Ellen Young, and Sam Smith.

Clara Reese and Becky Deal compile a list of alumni to be invited to visit H.H.S. and take part in the Homecoming festivities.

Creating a desire for excellence in scholastic achievement, the Beta Club places a needed emphasis upon the importance of better grades.

Members, chosen after mid-term exams and at the beginning of the school year, are selected on the basis of character, academic achievement, and outstanding leadership. They receive Beta Club pins and a certificate of membership on induction. At graduation, the diploma of each member bears the Beta Club seal. The Junior members serve as Marshals.

This year the club has been responsible for notifying the class of 1950 to be honorees in the Homecoming festivities.

To promote journalistic activities at Hickory High is the chief goal of the Beatrice Cobb Chapter, International Quill and Scroll Society. Quill and Scroll members are limited to those making notable contributions to their publications, while maintaining a high scholastic average.

Each spring, members assume the responsibility of publishing one copy of the HICKORY DAILY RECORD. Society members contribute numerous news and feature stories to the paper, and they also help in the printing of this special edition.

The annual Sock Hop and Twirp Dance help finance the various activities of the society and provide for the students of Hickory High a diversification of school entertainment. Climaxing the year's activities is the Quill and Scroll Banquet, where trophies and awards are presented to outstanding members of the society.

Ann Robinette, Richard Cansler, Donna Havnaer, Barbara Ingold, Mary Yoder, Sarah McCurry receive trophies at the annual Quill and Scroll banquet.

Diligently working to complete dummy sections, "Log parties" become more frequent as the deadline for the copy to be turned in draws near.

Restraining inquiries, the closed door on second floor during fourth period merely disguises the flurry within that increases as the publication deadline of the school yearbook, the Loc, approaches. Write-ups and captions are written, revised, and rewritten, photos taken and retaken, in an effort to uphold the prized Medalist rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, numerous first place awards, and the All-American Award from the Southern Interscholastic Press Association.

Flick of a flash and the snap of a shutter, signifying the presence of a photographer recording the highlights of the school year, are routine activities to the students who are anxiously awaiting the distribution of the 1961 Hickory Loc.

LOG BUSINESS STAFF SOLICITS ADS THROUGHOUT COMMUNITY

Combination of mathematics and salesmanship qualifies students for membership on the Log Business Staff. Not only must the members be able to handle money efficiently but also they must have the ability to solicit ads from prominent business men. Although the staff is the only one in this area recommended by the Merchants' Association, the selling of ads is still a job which requires an outgoing personality and a high degree of salesmanship. After the selling of ads is completed the Loggers are faced with the problem of fitting them correctly into the back of the annual. Each year the staff is in charge of collecting picture money and selling subscriptions to the Log. Working throughout the year, the Log Business Staff may be considered the backbone of the HICKORY LOG.

Fitting the ads into the final dummy proves to be a difficult task for the Log Business Staff.

TWIG EDITORIAL CAPTURES FOUR OUTSTANDING AWARDS

Twiggers surround the task of compiling and editing the bi-weekly publication during make-up day.

Crowded into a busy two weeks are the numerous tasks of preparing a newspaper: features, scoops, sports, editorials, and layouts—all preparations for make-up. Besides the publication of school news, the TWIG informs the community of extracurricular functions, provides training for those students interested in journalism as a career, furnishes a record of major activities, and builds school spirit. As a result of the staffers' hard work, the bi-weekly publication has been awarded the S.I.P.A. Trophy; the Medalist; First Place at the National Scholastic Press Association; and the North Carolina Scholastic Press Award in 1960.

Exercising efficient salesmanship, TWIG Business Staffers canvass the city for advertising space, thus acquiring the essential funds for bi-weekly publication. Aided by ideas from papers exchanged with other schools, their job is to improvise an attractive arrangement for ads in each edition of the TWIG.

Before circulation of the paper the Twiggers reserve a night for folding pages. Finally revealing the special features, editorials, and awards, the staff members distribute the newspapers to all homerooms, thus initiating an anticipated period of reading.

At the climax of two busy weeks, Nancy Brown and Jimmy Hasty sell a TWIG to Peggy Woodard.

Features to be written and ads to be sold are of major importance in the preparation of a radio production.

Keeping the students of Hickory High informed with the latest happenings of the school and community is the function of "Hickory Hi Speaks," the school's half hour resumé of the week's news and sports, and an added feature of interest. Once a month the club honors a deserving senior as their Personality of the Month.

Each summer the staff selects two members to attend the radio workshop at the University of North Carolina. Their trip is financed by scholarships from radio station WIRC and by the proceeds of the annual Radio Day. The profits from this day come from selling ads and make it possible for several members to attend the S.I.P.A. Convention during the spring. It is hoped that this experience will encourage some of the members to go into radio work as a career.

Recognizing students with special artistic talents, the LEAVES keeps the literary senses of Hickory High School sharpened and encourages students to broaden their interests in writing. Reading submitted literary works, drawing layouts, and selling ads constitute the work of the staff in assembling the magazine for printing. Adding to the accomplishment of their objectives, in the spring members of the staff annually attend the S.I.P.A. Convention in Lexington, Virginia.

By gathering information and selling ads, the Student Directory is edited and financed by the staff. By selling Student Directories and Log covers, the staff raises money.

Nearing publication of the Leaves, the school literary magazine, members of the staff discuss the plans for the cover and judge various write-ups.

Insuring safe passage to and from school, Garvey Beam and Hal Wilson load elementary school children on the bus.

By rising early and arriving home late the Hickory High bus drivers relieve parents of the duty of taking their children to and from school each day. The responsibility is heavy considering approximately 1,100 Hickory area students rely on bus transportation.

The students on which the community relies are selected for driving buses only after they have passed rigid state and county driving tests. After becoming bus drivers, they submit state reports, compiled monthly.

In addition to the responsibility of traffic safety, the drivers are required to keep their buses clean and to undertake any necessary disciplinary measures to keep order on the bus.

LIBRARY CLUBBERS ANXIOUSLY MOVE INTO NEW BUILDING

Touring the new library, Mrs. Matthews points out to Library Club member, Gene Moser, where magazines will be shelved.

Student librarians are found each day industriously performing the routine duties in the library. They attend to the circulation and shelving of books and the handling of library permits. These activities, rendered by Library Club members, enable the librarian to spend more time assisting students in finding special reference materials. The experience obtained through library work provides development of other talents which aid the members in giving notable service to similar activities in the school.

Through attractive bulletin boards and articles in the TWIG and HICKORY DAILY RECORD, interesting books are publicized by the club.

Each year in the fall and spring, Library Club members attend district and state meetings of the Library Association.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION CLUB TRAINS IN SALESMANSHIP;

Evelyn Lookadoo arranges an informal display for the benefit of the passing students as well as D.E. pupils.

As a preparation for a life vocation, Hickory High School sponsors a special program for students interested in entering a specific trade immediately after graduation. As a part of this program the Distributive Education Club teaches its members the value of leadership and cooperation. The program contains a system of attending classes half a day and working the remaining half. This enables the students to get in all their required units for graduation and obtain experience in their chosen profession. To learn more about the activities of similar organizations and to further their own club, members attend the Northwestern District Meeting, and the State Meeting of D.E. Clubs.

Working to promote a better understanding of trade and industrial education in the school, in the community, and in the state, the Diversified Occupations Club allows students to hold part-time jobs and at the same time carry three high school subjects.

This program benefits not only the students by providing necessary money for school and experience for future employment but also the community by training useful workers for firms.

Encouraging worthwhile projects by local civic chapters, the D.O. Club works to create more understanding between employees in the community and students. As a project, the club sponsors Bosses' Night Banquet. In this way students show appreciation to their employers, who have so faithfully taught them a trade.

While attending the Vocational Industrial Club Convention, Hickory High's D.O. Club compares its progress with similar clubs throughout the state.

Demonstrating her knowledge of teeth, Linda Collins, D.O. student, shows her fellow workers what she has learned during her year as a dentist's assistant.

To add to its many honors, the Hickory High Band was invited to march in the North Carolina Inaugural Parade.

The trophies in the background reveal to the reed section of the band, directed by Louis Bean, that members have put in long hours of practice.

BAND HONORS THE NEW

Roaring of the ocean is quite an unusual sound for a high school band to hear, but the H.H.S. Band, chosen to play in the Band Shell at Daytona Beach, hears this as they visit the sand and the surf each summer.

The efforts of diligent work and training are acknowledged by the superior ratings merited in several contests and festivals. Neither knee-deep mud nor rain prevents marching for a Superior rating. Chosen to march in the North Carolina Inaugural Parade, the band also has represented the state at the Shrine Bowl.

Striving to limit any interruption during practice, this year the band has formed the Senior Band Council. The seniors are responsible for carrying out all necessary disciplinary measures, thereby giving the director an opportunity to devote his time exclusively to rehearsal.

Extra practice and tryouts among the sections prove a challenge for the members. The H.H.S. Band works toward developing an appreciation for music and toward training individuals to work together as a unit.

Always in the lead, Betty Price, Luanne Kaylor, Chi Chi Queen, Harriet Hager, Pat Norwood, and Helen Tillman head the Hickory High Band, "The Pride of the South-east."

Every day sixth period and many afternoons after school are spent learning prize winning routines for the Hickory High Marching Band.

Cutting their lunch periods short and returning to the school for night rehearsals, chorus members spend more time practicing than the designated fourth period. The time which is spent achieving perfection in their music is distinguishable by the superior ratings received from the State Choral Festival in Greensboro and the State Contest in Boone which they enter in the spring.

Their musical talents are offered to the community through numerous performances at churches, schools, and civic clubs during the year. By acquainting members and the community with fine vocal music and training voices, the Mixed Chorus, Boys' Glee Club, and Girls' Glee Club accomplish their objective.

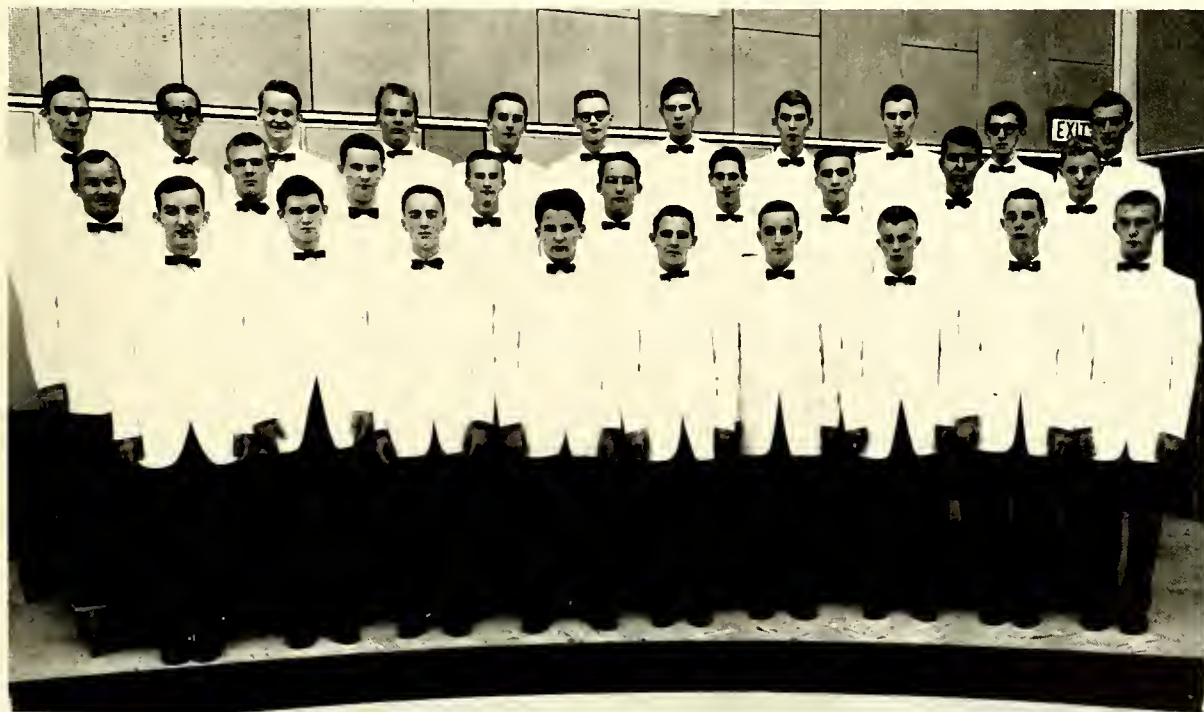

All eyes focus on Mr. Ellis, director, as the choral members receive cues during fourth period practice.

Discussing the role of being a teacher, Miss Shore, at a regular meeting, explains the increasing necessity for qualified teachers.

"Preparing to serve," represents the aim of the members of the Dixon-McComb Chapter of the Future Teachers of America. Willing to substitute for absent teachers anytime called upon, the Future Teachers participate in varied school projects. Depicting the devotion and interest of the Club members, delegates to the state convention in Greensboro share both their ideas and experiences with other members of the club.

Guiding visiting parents through the school during the annual Hickory High School Open House and serving as aides at the district NCEA meeting held in Hickory this year, the Future Teachers gain valuable information and experience in preparation for their chosen careers.

FHA PARTICIPATES IN STATE CONVENTION IN KANNAPOLIS

Enabling girls to further their interests in the world of homemaking and fashions, the Future Homemakers of America is an organization open to any girl taking homemaking. Unlimited opportunities are offered to the club's members for training in their life's work. Stressing the opportunities and the importance of homemaking, the sixty members attended the F.H.A. Convention at Kannapolis in October. Although a relatively new club, the Future Homemakers of America definitely expands each year in membership and responsibilities. Always ready to serve in any way needed, the girls provided refreshments for the visiting teachers at the North Carolina Education Association Convention in October.

Pour, stir, add a dash, Rosemary Newton and Jan Keener have discovered a new "dish."

Handing out their "last cent," Key Club members realize there must be money in the treasury for the club to function.

Opening the door to the Hickory High Key Club is accomplished when the master key is a combination of the desires to further the club and aid the community.

Hickory's Kiwanis Club sponsors this junior civic organization which is open to all qualified high school boys who are willing to participate and work for the club year-round. Members discover the latter is possible; so, during the summer months of the year, most of the clubbers participate in softball competition against Hickory churches and local civic clubs. During the school term the club sponsors candy sales and a Christmas party which brightens the faces of underprivileged children throughout the city.

PAPER DRIVE STRENGTHENS GIRLS' MONOGRAM CLUB FUND

Instigating moral support and spirit in the school, the Girls' Monogram Association, consisting of girls who lettered in either basketball or cheerleading, promotes a better understanding between the athletic department and the student body and gives girls an opportunity to contribute athletically to the school.

Purchasing monogram blazers has been made possible through the funds derived from a car wash, a paper drive, several bake sales, and a Red Tornado car sticker sale. Displaying their skill at such feats as running and jumping, the girls attend an Annual Girls' Field Day held by the Northwestern Conference each spring.

Finally, after the tedious work of earning money, the members of the Girls' Monogram Club, Peggy Woodard and Beth Shuler, present a monogrammed blazer to Mrs. Lackey.

SENIORS OVERPOWER JUNIORS IN SUB-JUNIOR POWDER BOWL

Ellen Young and Janice Sigmon perform a dance routine before Key Club members and fellow Sub-Juniors as initiation into Sub-Junior Woman's Club.

Awarding one-hundred-dollar scholarships to two ambitious students—a worthy Ridgeview pupil and a Hickory High senior—the Sub-Junior Woman's Club aids deserving girls in financing their college education. Proceeds from the annual Powder Bowl Game, competitive sport between the junior and senior members of the club, strengthen the scholarship fund. Sub-Juniors relish the temporary notability but find limelight an unsatisfactory ointment for the sore muscles from unwonted scrimmages.

In trying to aid the community, the Sub-Juniors gave food and clothes to needy families at Christmas and Thanksgiving.

NEW CHEMISTRY CLUB PROMOTES INTEREST IN SCIENCE

Flasks, test tubes, Bunsen burners, together with students planning to make science their career, are the basic elements of the Hickory High School Chemistry Club.

Chartered this year, the organization furthers interest in the fields of chemistry. This is made possible by local chemists, technologists, and physicists who assist the members in understanding more thoroughly the purposes and duties of their respective occupations. Through this program of the organization, the future scientists of Hickory High can, at an early age, extensively broaden their abilities and perfect scientific talents.

At a regular meeting Bill Murray, Ernie Sills, and Rick Drum perform experiments for other Chemistry Club members.

ART CLUBBERS SELL PLAQUES THROUGHOUT COMMUNITY

Brenda Lawson, David Erwin, Carol Moretz, and Pat Mull put the finishing touches on the plaques sold by the Art Club.

Plaques, representing reproductions of ancient and contemporary styles in art, were constructed by the Art Club this year and sold to various establishments around the community and to individual citizens interested in art.

In addition to creating artistic interests that will be carried by the art student long after graduation, the Art Club also helps him to become more conscious of design in his everyday life and cultivate his tastes toward fine art.

Talents of the Hickory High Art Department were rewarded by winning recognition in competition sponsored by the Associated Artists of Winston-Salem.

Preparing to meet the demands of future foreign relations, Spanish Club members keep informed of current events of their Spanish neighbors of the world. The Spanish Club is also working continually for the advancement of Spanish at Hickory High School.

In order to aid a Spanish student who wishes to further his study of the language, the club is striving to sponsor a scholarship for college. This is being brought into realization by the successful candy sale which is held each year. In their spare time students sell this candy from door-to-door in the various sections of Hickory.

"What do you mean you're not going to buy any?" Well, there's always another house and another try on the Spanish Club candy sale route.

Senior French Club, comprised of third-year French students and Seniors taking second-year French, heads the executive branch of the total French Club and guides various projects. The chief activity of the club is International Weekend. During this event, the foreign exchange students from surrounding districts come to Hickory to participate in social and educational activities including an open house, a supper, and an assembly program. American students have the opportunity during the assembly program to ask any questions concerning the exchangees. Extending their hospitality, the people of Hickory, while opening their homes to the visitors, welcome the opportunity to become acquainted with them. Encouraging peace and strengthening international relationships are the purposes underlying International Weekend.

Increasing interests in the French language made it necessary to divide Le Cercle Français into two divisions. Paralleling the Senior French Club is the Junior French Club, consisting of Sophomores and Juniors taking second-year French. Canvassing the Hickory area on two nights, French Clubbers sell potato chips in an effort to strengthen the club's treasury. With the profits collected from the canvass, minor expenses of the exchange students are financed, and also equipment needed for furthering the French language is purchased. The outstanding project is creating an interest in the French people and their customs and producing a better understanding of them.

Athletic coaches are the men behind Hickory High School's winning teams. Working with players on and off the field of play, they train and mold them into competing and cooperating athletes.

H.H.S.'s athletes have brought many laurels to their alma mater not only in glorious victories, but in superb sportsmanship.

Victorious Coach Barger accepts congratulations from Mr. Cottrell after sharing the title of Western North Carolina Championship with Brown High School of Kannapolis.

COACHES TRAIN, COUNSEL, PROVIDE ESSENTIAL BOOST

H.H.S. coaches lead double lives; they not only serve as regular teachers but also coach the school's teams after school hours. This second job includes numerous responsibilities, such as: practicing every day, scouting opposing teams, and supporting the players at each game or match.

Training the students in good sportsmanship, the coaches accomplish another of their objectives. True reward for all their efforts comes with the knowledge that they have provided H.H.S. with championship teams.

Eight energetic girls, representing all classes, faithfully cheer H.H.S. teams. Besides regularly displaying their enthusiasm on the football field and basketball court, the cheerleaders support all school functions. Other contributions include: creating attractive bulletin boards for the main hall, strengthening school spirit among the students through pep rallies, and raising the flag daily.

Hickory's gridiron squad scored a total of 381 points for the season while letting their opponents have only 85. Out of 124 passes 51 were completed for a gain of 790 yards and 7 touchdowns. Hickory made 155 first downs, intercepted 21 passes, lost 16 fumbles, and punted 27 times for a 33.9 yard average.

Bulldozing his way through the Gastonia line, Johnny Buff strives for needed yardage for a first down as end Jimmy Sweezy throws a vital block in the path of the Green Waves.

Fullback Gene Isenhour racked up 1,208 yards in 183 carries for an average of 8.75 yards per carry. He was surpassed only by substitute Tommy Runkle with an average of 10.17 on 17 carries.

Ray Hoke, quarterback, completed 23 out of 50 passes for an average of .460. On his passes, H.H.S. gained 418 yards.

Hickory gained an amazing 3,368 yards rushing and 790 yards passing and held its opponents to a mere 1,284 rushing and 749 passing.

On the option play in the Hickory-Gastonia game, Ray Hoke makes a long gain after out-maneuvering some of the Gastonia players.

Hickory High opened its football season with a defeat by the Gastonia Greenwaves. Fortunately for Hickory, this was a non-conference game and Gastonia was a four-A power.

Traveling to Hudson for the second game, Hickory had its first victory of the year in a close game. The last minute efforts of the Tornadoes brought the score to 20-19.

After these two games, the next eight were Hickory all the way. The only other team which came within 11 points of Hickory was Valdese.

Sam Fowler, Best Blocker, follows a punt down the field.

Stretching to tap the ball to one of his ready teammates, Ronnie Deal vies with a Valdese player at the opening of the game.

Despite opposing odds the Tornadoes placed fifth in the Northwestern Conference, almost upsetting the second place Hudson Hornets in the Championship Tournament.

After whole-heartedly participating in seventeen regular season games and one tournament game, Ronnie Deal led the Tornadoes in rebounding and shooting with a 13.8 point scoring average per game and emerged sixth high scorer in the conference.

TORNADOES TAKE FIFTH PLACE IN CONFERENCE

Bottom row: B. Gravett, R. Bumgarner, B. Burns, Captain, N. Noell. Top row: D. Markham, R. Deal, G. Isenhour, B. Brittain, J. Fleming.

H.H.S.'s Quintet had plenty of experience and potential at the start of the season with the return of four lettermen: Ronnie Deal, Gene Isenhour, Nat Noell, and Bobby Burns, but they lacked height which cost them several contests. Because of injuries to several key players, including Captain Bobby Burns and starter Jack West, the Cagers faltered.

Gene Isenhour led the Hickory Five in rebounds, was second in scoring, and was the best defensive player.

The J. V.'s had the first perfect season in the history of the school. Led by Tommy Dcal and Doyle Cole, they racked up a 15-0 record.

Jack West catches a defender off guard and scores for H.H.S.

"What do you mean you want to play forward?"

Going up in an attempt to score for H.H.S., Ronnie Deal is closely guarded by Valdese players.

Members of the girls' basketball team anxiously await their chance to participate in some of the game's fast-moving action.

Facing strong opposition, the Tornadoettes ended their regular season with a 14-3 record. Led by Captain Beth Shuler and assisted by All-Conference Jo Green and Judy Rudisill, the Cagers surpassed Newton-Conover and Wilkes Central in the tournament but were downed by Taylorsville, thus placing second in the conference.

TORNADOES SCORE ANOTHER PERFECT SEASON . . .

Tornadoes receive final instructions before taking on a new opponent.

Hickory High again showed its superiority on the baseball field, winning the Northwestern Conference Championship the fourth year in succession. The Tornadoes finished the regular season with a perfect record of 7 wins and no losses.

The first taste of defeat came after the regular season was over. Playing against the Southwestern Conference Champions, the Hickory High Tornadoes lost to Cherryville.

Waiting their turn at bat, Hickory players rest before meeting their opposition.

Scooping up a ground ball, Charles Bock takes advantage of sixth period for extra practice.

. . . RANK SECOND IN DISTRICT PLAYOFFS

Spectators from the visiting team, as well as the home team, assemble for an afternoon of competitive baseball.

Marion Kirby chooses a suitable bat before attempting to hit a home run.

Setting a state record, Ray Hoke pulls ahead in the 120 yard high hurdles event.

Tommy Golden strains for winning position in the second heat of the hundred yard dash at the district playoff.

TRACK TEAM EXCELS—TWO STATE

Sam Fowler awaits measurement which will decide whether he will win the state finals in the discus throw.

With every muscle tense, Tommy Golden exerts his last bit of energy during the shot-put event.

As his competitors watch, Sam Fowler throws the discus, putting him in second place in the state.

Pulling ahead of all opponents, Richard Jackson ties his previously set state record.

RECORDS TIED; TWO BROKEN—PLACING SECOND IN STATE

During a regional track meet, Terry Sims leaps for every fraction of an inch that he can gain in the broad jump.

Finishing the regular season with the best team record the school has had in five years, Hickory High's track team was host to the District Playoffs. Outclassing ten other schools, the Tornado thinclads won the contest with a score of 31 points.

Nine of the stars participated in the State Association Meet. Richard Jackson, three-year letterman, tied his previous records on the 100 and 220 yard dashes and set a new state record in the 440 yard dash. A second was chopped off the state record in the 120 yard high hurdles by Ray Hoke.

Hickory High School's golf team ended its season with another winning year. The 'Tornadoes' record showed five wins and one loss.

For the first time in the history of golf at H.H.S., a member of the team, Bobby Isenhour, scored a hole in one. Unfortunately, it was in a practice session instead of a scheduled match. Bobby led the team in points with 13, followed by David Harrison who scored 9.

GOLF HAS WINNING SEASON;

Lining up his shot, for a necessary putt, Jack Sides tries for a birdie while practicing at the Lake Hickory Country Club.

Returning a serve, George Moretz backhands the ball.

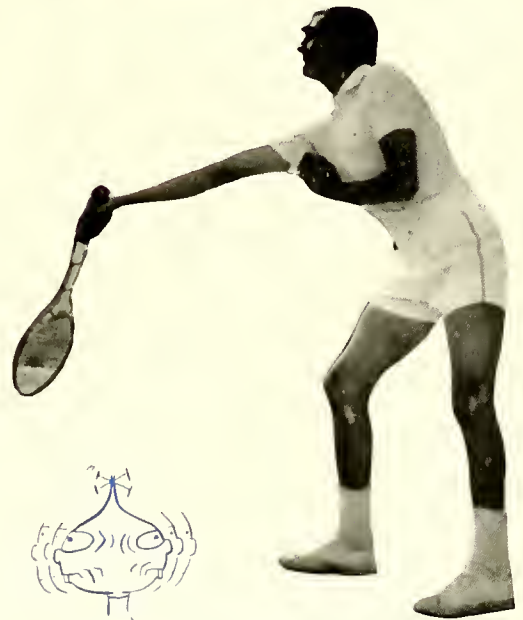

Despite the efforts of Hickory High's tennis team, they had a losing season. Although they beat Charlotte Garinger twice, Granite Falls once, the team lost to Elkin twice, Statesville once and Shelby twice, and ended up with three wins and five losses.

Throughout the season, the top positions were held by Don Short, Billy Nau, Jimmy Aderholdt, and Johnny McKee. The fifth and sixth positions were rotated through the season by George Moretz and Jimmy Hasty. Mart Lipe was a strong man in the doubles.

GRADUATION BRINGS ANXIETY, PRIDE, SORROW, BEWILDERMENT

Reminiscing about their high school days and discussing future plans, senior boys take a break from graduation practice.

Radiating smiles of reassurance to nervous Seniors, Becky Deal and Caldwell Seagle, Chief Marshals, prepare to lead the procession.

Climaxing twelve years of secondary education—and yet the beginning of a college education, a job, or perhaps a marriage—the class of 1960 slowly marches down the long aisle at the P. E. Monroe Auditorium to accept their diplomas—mere symbols of hours upon hours of concentrated study, research and effort, these certificates pave the way for a future in life. Even though this happens every year about the same time, it is something new and exciting to each individual. But never to be forgotten are the many wonderful hours of high school days spent making and enjoying new friends.

Getting the line and step right, Pat Cauble, Sandra Carpenter, Peggy Campbell, and Millie Bumgarner spend part of Senior Week rehearsing for the long-awaited night.

Using the profits from the Beauty Contest which was held on February 17, 1960, several delegates from the various publication staffs were able to attend Southern Interscholastic Press Association Convention.

This year's contest had a total of forty-one entries, each representing clubs, classes, or home-rooms. Mrs. Gnella Allison and Miss Nancy Usrey directed the festivities while Mr. Bobby Sigmon and Miss Hickory, Tenita Deal, both 1958 graduates of HHS, acted as co-masters of ceremonies. Voted by the student body for the second time as the most popular actor at HHS, Rock Hudson selected the Beauty Queen from photographs of the ten finalists chosen by out-of-town judges.

1960 FINALISTS: Irma Scott, Carolyn Shoaf, Carolyn Newton, Shirley Baker, Betty Friday, Lynn Hall, Robin Parks, Mary E. Violette, Karen Collins, Beth Hall.

Surpassing all expectations and satisfying everyone involved, the Junior Play on April 22, 1960—slightly delayed because of the heavy snowfall—was lauded by the delighted audience as definitely outstanding, both in production and direction.

A case of mistaken identity proves humorous as Stig Dagberg tries to explain his presence to Pam Whitener in the Junior Class play.

Love often causes many problems and Gary Eckard and Kay Barbour try to help Betty Friday find a possible solution to her difficulty.

Tommy Runkle struggles to prove that Randy Shook and Gary Eckard have made a mistake in the Junior Class play "Spring Fever."

SCHOOL, ONE CONTINUOUS RUSH

In the course of a day at school nothing seems to be accomplished in the habitual rush of class change, "pop" tests, and club activities. The average student finds himself in the turmoil of numerous decisions confronting the teen-ager's society. Often the fervent pace makes a pause necessary to withstand the pressures of schedules. Lunch is a most welcome opportunity to refuel and to grasp the latest news. But on an especially trying day the most desirable noise is the sound of the 3:15 bell.

Escaping the confusion of crowded corridors, Mr. Washam and Mr. Cottrell pause to study a map of the Hickory school district.

Although on the field the band is a precision marching group, there are some wild and confusing times as represented here.

Putting the finishing touches on a tablecloth, Rosemary Newton, Jan Keener and Ann Bell are glad their homemaking Christmas projects are nearly completed.

FESTIVITIES HONOR ALUMNI

Many hours of diligent work are put into the preparations for a successful Homecoming celebration represented here by Pat Brady, Jimmy Gaither, and Chipper Kiser.

Anyone can make a mistake, as Judy Fox, seen descending the boys' stairs, well knows after this experience.

OMPRISE SCHOOL DAY

Smiling with anticipation, little Miss Teresa Moses, crown bearer, eagerly awaits her turn to participate in the Homecoming festivities.

Returning to school after their lunch break, these students exchange last bits of news before departing for their next class.

AMBASSADORS EXCHANGE IDEAS

Showing numerous countries the unusual and fascinating nature of typical U. S. teenagers, Becky Deal and Eugene Templeton, representing Hickory High, have participated in the American Field Service program. Becky has spent the past summer in Greece living with two different families, proving her adaptability and congeniality. Spending a year in Norway, completing his high school education, Eugene is able to compare two completely different educational systems. He will return next summer to share his experiences. Both Becky and Eugene aid the A.F.S. program with speeches and newspaper articles. Through their host families and new friends, they create a better relation among nations, a step toward world peace.

Depicting the closeness of the average Norwegian family, Gene Templeton, H.H.S.'s first foreign exchange student to go abroad on the winter program, gathers on the lawn with his adopted parents for an afternoon's rest.

—A STEP TOWARD WORLD PEACE

MERJA SIPILA

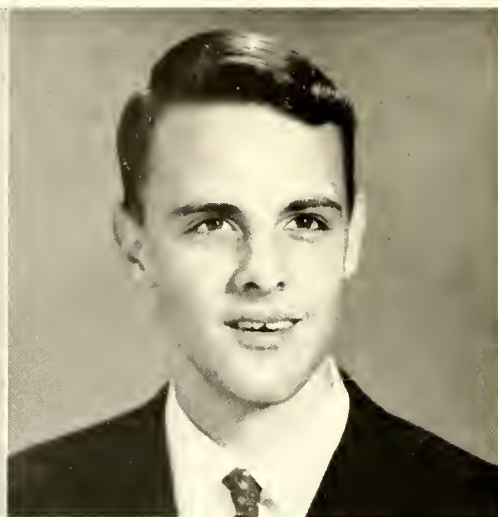

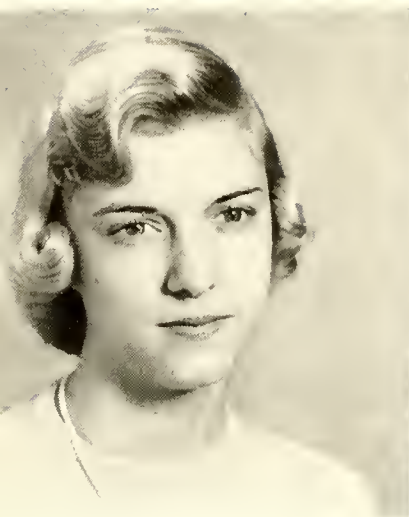

Discovering spend-the-night parties, cheerleading, and American Indians were exciting experiences for Merja Sipila, this year's A.F.S. student from Kuopio, Finland. Pretty, petite "Merj" has become a typical U. S. teenager and an excellent Hickory High student. All the fans will remember her as a vivacious cheerleader who led the teams on to victory. Participating in various school activities, Merja is an honorary member of the Student Council, French Club, and Sub-Junior Woman's Club. She has shared the life and customs of her native country with the community, her friends, and her host family, the Jake Shufords.

Merja Sipila, exchange student from Finland, helps Mrs. Cilley and the history class learn about her native country.

Although she had never seen a cheerleader, Merja Sipila learned quickly, to become an enthusiastic participant.

AUTOGRAPHS

103 Main Ave. Place, S. W.
HICKORY, N. C.

A black and white photograph of a Safeway-Market Inc. storefront. The building is a single-story structure with a flat roof. On the left, there is a large display window with a white frame. To the right of the window is a white door. Further right is another large window. A circular sign is mounted on the wall to the right of the door, featuring the text 'SAFETY-MARKET INC.' around a central graphic. The ground in front of the store is paved.

Mary Anne Fritz and Tommy Runkle prove by contrast that Central Telephone, in step with the entire telephone industry, offers the latest in telephones.

With a backward glance, MC² and Horatio bid farewell to Hickory High School whose walls, year after year, resound the past and watch the continual flow of students, sharing their joys, bearing their sorrows, and awaiting their tomorrows. Here the cherished events of Homecoming, Twirp Dance, Jr.-Sr. Prom, and graduation become fading memories, never again to be relived by the class of '61, but replaced by the anticipation of a college degree, an advancing vocation, or an approaching marriage. As departing seniors vacate the building, juniors and sophomores look forward to another school year —another step toward their graduation.
